FROM THE CENTER SEAT

by Capt. Kelly Hilliard

Medical alert! Medical alert! Due to an injury, I, your captain, was given an emergency transfusion. Unfortunately, the only donor was a Vulcan! Through the marvels of medical science, the transfer was a success, so as a result of the transfusion, your captain is now half Vulcan! Many have commented that they thought so all along, but that I hadn't inherited the ears. So if you see anyone in captain's pips roaming down the hallways, with rounded pointy ears, it's me. Worse thing about it was I had a really hot date Saturday night! Now I have to wait three and a half years (only half Vulcan, remember!).

The con season is behind us and it is time we turned our attention to other pursuits. We have been enjoying many non-con activities of late and this trend will continue. For those of you who didn't participate--WAKE UP, you're missing all the fun! If you didn't find anything to your liking, please let us know. We're always open to new ideas.

To business. SciTrek, our primary charity, is in desperate need of volunteers. More about this later in this issue. Region Two will be hosting the Starfleet 1994 International Conference in Orlando. We need to begin raising money for the conference so that we can show Starfleet what Region Two can do. Also, each of you needs to start planning for the trip down. If you can, apply for time off during that weekend now. The dates are in the ad in this issue as well as info on membership (only open to Starfleet members until March).

On another note. At Vulkan Atlanta, Ed Danley officially announced my appointment as the Zone Two Coordinator. I am deeply honored by his trust in me. My new duties will be to assist him and Deborah Nelson in the running of ships in the state of Georgia. All CSR's for ships in Zone Two will be sent to me and I will forward those reports to Deborah. I am also, in effect, the next step after the chapters' commanding officers in the line of command, which means that if they have a problem, they are to call/write me first and I will try to resolve any problems they have before they are kicked up to a higher authority. This new system comes at an important time. With the 1994 conference coming up, Deborah will have her hands full. So I am glad to help her out any way I can. She and Betsy, the conference chairman, have a big job ahead of them.

The wind is behind our backs and the future looks good. Hope to see each and every one of you at the next meeting.

NOTES FROM NUMBER ONE

by Cmdr. Jeff Kirkland, Executive Officer

Between vacation and my work, I have not had a spare moment to my name. We need to get ourselves together and bring up our membership by talking to our friends who are interested in Star Trek. We are the oldest ship in the Atlanta area and we need to bring our membership up. Our captain is now the Georgia Regional Coordinator. This means that all Georgia ships report to him as well as the RC. We need to have our membership up so we don't lose our ship status. We also have a lot of fun at our outings.

With the holiday season coming up, we need to try our best to help out as much as possible. The Festival of Trees is coming up and SciTrek may need us to work with them on this project. Also, we usually have a Christmas party and we all need to do our best to make it.

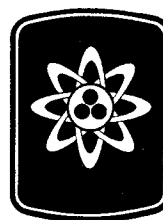

Region 2 (the Second Fleet) is hosting the international conference in 1994 in Orlando, Florida, at the Vulcon convention. This will be in June and our captain and I are hosting the hangover party and we are going to need your help. So make you plans to come down to the international conference in Orlando in June of 1994 and have some fun with other Trekkers.

Nothing much to say at this time except that we need help badly at SciTrek. Between the cutting of their staff and the people who have left and not been replaced, they need the help of volunteers now more than ever. We were a big help to them when the Star Federation Science exhibit was in town, believe it or not. As of the last time I was there, they had only one interpreter on the floor and maybe one or two volunteers to help them. If you have any spare time, please go by SciTrek and get trained to assist them. REMEMBER--this is one of our projects and we need to help out as much as we can. SciTrek does give some benefits to their volunteers.

Communications

"Hailing Frequencies"

*by
Lt. Cmdr. Edmund Trafford,*

We are between con seasons at the moment (oh thank you, powers that be of the galaxy, thank you, thank you, thank you) so things are fairly quiet. The party at Vulcon hosted by the staff of Dragon Con's "Trek Trak" programming was fun, and led to some informal discussion about various panels and topics for next year's ST offerings as a part of Dragon Con. Also, with Capt. Hilliard's promotion to Zone Coordinator, we have talked about some ways that the Communications Department can support his duties. One possible project is the compilation and publication of a ships' roster (names, logos, brief histories) of the ships for which he would be responsible.

I'm always on the lookout for column ideas, original writing, science fact/fiction articles, book reviews, TV episode reviews, etc. etc. etc. If you have anything interesting or provocative, please don't hesitate to submit it.

FEATURESFEATURESFEATURES

CREWMAN OF THE MONTH

This month's crewman of the month is a newcomer to the group. She has been a regular at all the major cons around Atlanta. Upon her recent decision to join the Republic, she has assisted in manning the Republic table at the recent Vulcon and provided supplies and technical assistance in video taping the Republic's welcome to the Fleet at the recent Highland Games at Stone Mountain. Congratulations Tonya Sparks, you're our new Crewman of the Month!

NEW BBS IN TOWN

There is a new BBS in town to replace the old REPUBLIC BBS that is currently using that name. The current REPUBLIC BBS is NOT affiliated with the USS Republic or Starfleet and charges a fee for use. The new BBS is called the Neutral Zone and is run by the new Romulan group in town. The number is 944-3639. Please give them a call if you have a computer and a modem.

BLOOD DRIVE IN MARCH

The Republic has been challenged to a Blood Feud at the next Vulcon in March. I urge each of you to consider giving at the next con. The honor of the Republic and Starfleet is at stake. Please give if you can.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

Come one, come all to the 1993 Republic Christmas party! The party will be at Capt. Hilliard's home on December 18 at 7PM. Activities to be announced. This will be a covered dish party, so please contact Capt. Hilliard to let him know what to bring. Directions to the party: Take US 78 north past GA 124, turn right at Skyland (In/Out gas station at corner), take left at third street (Rockdale) immediately after stop sign warning sign, take first right into Walden Park, go down to end of street and turn left onto Walden Park Place, second house on the left.

SCITREK

SciTrek, our primary charity, is in need of our help. Volunteers are running thin at SciTrek. The Republic has been active in the past in helping out at SciTrek. Now that the con season is over, it's time we are again. I need everyone who can volunteer some of their time to contact me immediately. It doesn't matter how much or how little time or skill you have--SciTrek can use you! Contact Capt. Hilliard at 985-5720 today!

REGION TWO NEEDS YOU!

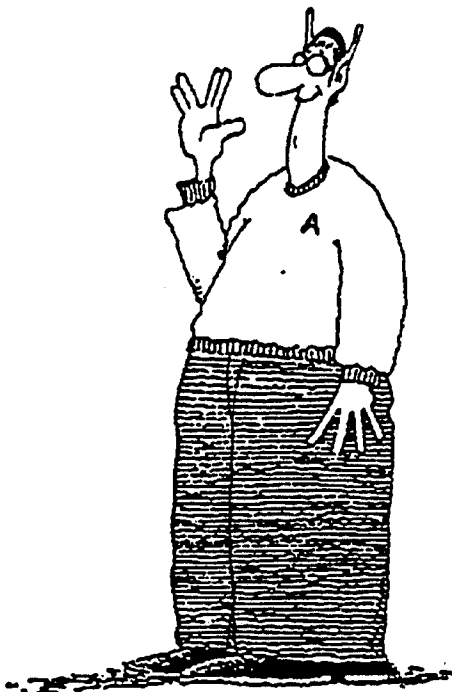

Region Two won the Starfleet 1994 National Conference in Orlando, Florida. This is the first time the conference has ever been in Region Two. We need your help. Volunteers and money are desperately needed to put on a conference of this caliber. In this light, I have volunteered to chair the hangover party on Sunday morning of the conference. The Republic is committed to raising the money to help make this a truly memorable con. Currently, all proceeds from badge sales are going to the Region Two Fund. But we need more. I am asking each of you to donate $10 if you possibly can. If that is more than you can afford, give what you can. Also, you can help out by buying one of our division badges. If every ship raised $200, the conference would be covered with some to spare. Ships all around the region are raising money for the conference, but many may not be able to raise very much. So we have to go beyond just enough. Please send what you can. If you have an idea for fund raising, please let me know and we will check it out.

Region Two is currently doing some fund raising of its own. On December 1, there will be a raffle for a limited edition print from the 1993 Tex Trek Conference featuring George Takei, Grace Lee Whitney, and Colm Meaney. Each star has signed this print as well as the artist. Raffle tickets are just $1. All those interested in this raffle, send a check for the number of raffle tickets and your name and address to either Capt. Kelly Hilliard at the address for the Republic or directly to Deborah Nelson at 3801 SW 59 Terrace #202, Davie, FL 33314. Make checks payable to Deborah Nelson with Region Two Raffle in the memo section. Remember, the drawing is December 1, so enter today!

For those of you who can volunteer your time at the conference, Capt. Elizabeth Osborne is chairing the Volunteer Coordination Committee. Her address is 6301 East Oneida Street, Inverness, FL 34452 or Capt. Kaye Downing at 2445 Stonebridge Drive, Orange Park, FL 32065-5779. I urge you to contact them as soon as possible. This is a great way to help out, especially if you don't have the means to do so financially.

MIRROR, MIRROR: THE NEXT GENERATION

Another Excerpt from "Errand of Malice" by Michael Montoure

The stench of rotting leaves hung in the air as a simulated sun beat down on Riker and Picard. With pike and short sword in hand, Picard moved quietly through the underbrush, his first officer close behind.

"Was there something you wanted to talk to me about, sir?" Riker asked.

"As a matter of fact, there is, Commander," Picard said, lashing out with the short sword at a passing small animal. He missed and cursed. "You were recently offered the chance to be the captain of the ISS Noonian Singh. But you turned it down."

"True, sir, I did."

"Might I ask why?"

Riker took a deep breath, holding the crossbow close to his body. He took careful aim and speared the animal Picard had missed. "The Singh didn't interest me, sir. It's the Enterprise I want."

Picard scowled. "You realize, of course, that you'd have to kill me to get it."

"I'm aware of that."

"It wouldn't be easy. Many have tried."

"And failed, sir. I know."

"What makes you think you could do any better?"

Riker smiled. "Perseverance, sir. The ability to bide my time until the right moment."

"There will never be a right moment, Riker."

Suddenly, faster than Riker could follow his movements, Picard turned and swung a blow at Riker's chest, knocking him to the ground. Picard stabbed the short sword at him, the point just breaking the skin of Picard's chest.

"Computer, end simulation," Picard said calmly. The jungle around them faded, and there was only a dark room, and Riker lying at Picard's feet.

"Remember that," Picard said. "There will never be a right moment."

* * *

"You let him do this to you?" Pulaski said, frowning as she placed the bandage carefully on Riker's chest.

"I didn't exactly LET him," Riker said, smiling humorlessly. "I don't understand how the old man can move so damn fast."

"He has to," Pulaski said simply. She put the final touches on the bandage as it blended with Riker's skin. "There. All done." She stood up straight and looked at him curiously. "Now then, why did you bother to come down here for that little scratch?"

"I needed an excuse to see you," Riker said. "It's about Geordi."

Pulaski laughed. "I'm afraid there's nothing I can do to help him. Having a Pachlid spaceship explode around you isn't something I can cure."

"That's not what I'm talking about," Riker snapped. "Geordi was useful to me, with that VISOR of his. I couldn't afford to lose him."

"What do you want me to do about it, raise the dead?"

"No, but do you still have one of Georgi's spare VISORs?"

"Certainly . . ."

"And you know how to attach one?"

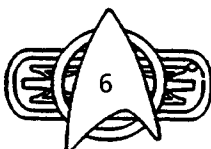

"Sure, but not to a sighted person."

"I don't mean using it on a sighted person." Riker grinned. "I think it's time Engineer O'Brien suffered a little . . . accident . . ."

Notes:

On Stardate 2/2210, the first of the new battleships, the USS Excelsior, was commissioned. This vessel is the newest in Star Fleet, and it incorporates many experimental operating systems. Since that time, Star Fleet has announced that another Mk I has been built, the USS Proxima, which is expected to finish its trials sometime in early 2/2400, and will be commissioned immediately thereafter.

Star Fleet Command has contracted for two Mk II versions to be built. The first of those, the USS Columbia, will be completed and ready for trials in early 2/2400 while the second, the USS Galacta, is expected to begin its trials sometime in the latter part of the year.

All the battleships are being constructed at the Sol III and Sol IV shipyards.

Technical data regarding the TransWarp engines used on these ships is classified and is not available for publication at this time. These engines operate by capturing the warp envelope in a transporter field and beaming it ahead of the ship to attain the reported warp speeds.

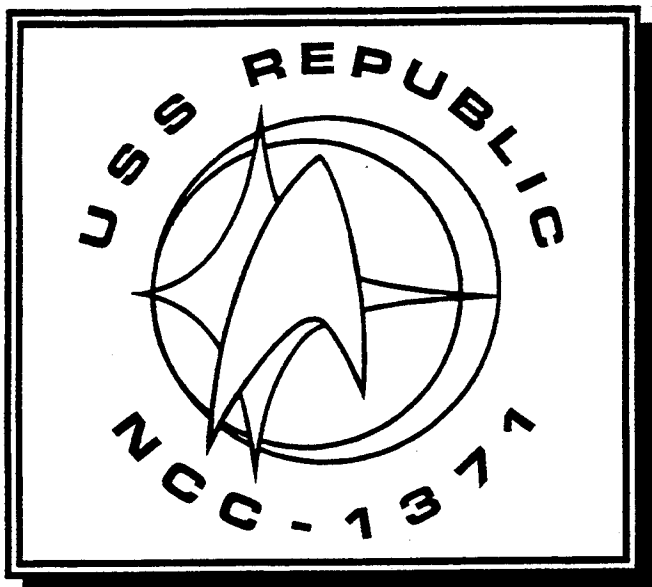

The weapons arrangement of the Mk I consists of 16 phasers and 4 photon torpedoes. Mounting 8 FH-11s and 8 FH-5s, the Mk I originally were designed to cover all fields of fire with both long- and short-range phasers. The evaluation teams felt this arrangement could be improved by removing the FH-5s and replacing them with two additional FH-11s. This meant that the ship would carry only 10 of the long-range phasers, but the fields of fire overlap more effectively. An improvement in torpedo launcher technology allowed two more torpedo bays to be added. The torpedo tubes of the Mk I bear only to the fore and aft, but those of the Mk II are arranged to cover all firing arcs.

The shield system of the Excelsior Class vessels is reportedly an improved version of the quadri-transducer that delivers more deflector power. Like the engines, the technical data regarding the shield system is classified.

The Excelsior has been called "The Great Experiment" by many in influential circles. These ships are the newest of any in Star Fleet and incorporate experimental technology in most of the components required to operate a warship. With so many new systems aboard these vessels, the process of testing them has been slow. Prior to being installed, each component was tested and re-tested until it met standards. Nevertheless, when the USS Excelsior was taken out for trials, the evaluation teams were constantly faced with primary system malfunctions that would not allow any of the secondary or back-up systems to be tested. This caused the evaluators to deal with these new components on a one-at-a-time basis, and thus creating time delays in the commissioning of the class.

STARFLEET

THE INTERNATIONAL
STAR TREK
FAN ASSOCIATION

STARFLEET is the fan organization with something for everyone. Members the world over are united in appreciation of STAR TREK - the greatest human adventure. Hundreds of chapters spread across the world link members into local fandom and the central organization.

Annual membership in STARFLEET begins with a package containing a membership card, memo pad, and a listing of chapters throughout the world, including the one nearest you! The membership handbook will introduce you to STARFLEET's unique infrastructure that offers two membership options. One allows you to be an associate member with no obligation other than receiving membership materials and newsletters. The other option provides a more futuristic atmosphere for those fans intrigued by the fleet structure of STAR TREK's universe. After receiving the membership package, a new member will have the opportunity to sign aboard the starship (chapter) of their choice, hold a fictional rank and position and take part in the chapter's STAR TREK related activities and community service projects.

Another element of STARFLEET is the annual subscription to the COMMUNIQUE, our bi-monthly newsletter that members receive. The COMMUNIQUE contains current information on STARFLEET operations and chapter activities, lists of upcoming conventions, news and information on STAR TREK media and articles on the space program and related areas.

When joining or renewing, please send check or money order (U. S. Funds only) made payable to "STARFLEET" to:
